LONDON PRO ARTE CHOIR

Musical Director
Robin Kimber

Accompanist
Paul Ayres

The London Pro Arte Choir is proud to present another season under the musical direction of Robin Kimber. The reputation of the choir continues to grow; last season it sang the final concert in the Mill Hill Music Festival as well as performing in Verdi's Requiem in Epsom.

The repertoire of the choir is widening and the coming season will include new delights by Britten, Charpentier, Chilcott and Gershwin.

The choir has grown steadily under Robin's baton. New members have found a warm welcome awaiting them, and have been encouraged by well-focused rehearsals, adroitly accompanied by Paul Ayres. Although there is no formal audition, a certain degree of musical literacy is assumed. For those less confident with sightreading, voice tapes are available.

Robin Kimber has spent most of his professional life involved with music in London and Oxford. He looks forward to the challenges of guiding the choir through this year's programme and is delighted to be leading them in another new season of music making.
